Luncheon Briefing Regarding TEA-21 Highway Programs and Federal Formula Grants

Wednesday, February 26, 2003
12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.
311 Cannon House Office Building

On Wednesday, February 26, 2003, from 12:30 to 2:00 p.m., the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC) and the California Institute will host a luncheon briefing in Room 311 of the Cannon House Office Building to examine federal highway programs and the state's unique vantage point regarding the formulas that apportion their funds as the Congressional delegation prepares to consider reauthorization of the TEA-21 transportation law.

The briefing, part of the Federal Formula Grants and California series, will explore California's share of federal-aid highway formula programs and the reasons behind the state's relatively low share of highway funds. It will also briefly outline several other formula grants, including Medicaid, welfare, education, health, and nutrition programs.

Federal Formula Grants and California is a unique research product developed through a collaboration between PPIC and the California Institute at the request of the bipartisan leadership of California's Congressional delegation. The project's reports, which examine hundreds of federal formula programs from a California perspective, are available at <http://www.ppic.org/publications/PPIC165/ppic165abstract.html> . PPIC is an independent, nonpartisan research institute based in San Francisco.

To RSVP for the February 26 luncheon (acceptances only please), send e-mail to randsell@calinst.org , fax to 202-546-2390, or call 202-546-3700.
